In neonatology, it's the little things that matter. That's why Cook Children's nationally recognized Level IV NICU provides the highest level of care. But our care and attention doesn't end there. The Cook Children's NEST Developmental Follow-up Center, created in 2013 with donor support, helps babies and their family's transition from hospital to home. The NEST Center begins supporting the family before a baby is discharged from the NICU, and then monitors the child's growth and development through 5 years of age giving our babies the best chance to soar.

Avery was born 14 weeks early weighing only 1lb 5 oz. Avery spent 234 days in Cook Children's Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU), with specialized care that helped Avery celebrate her first birthday—a milestone her parents weren't always sure would be possible.

For Avery, the NICU was the first step on a long medical journey. Avery went home dependent on oxygen and a feeding tube and continued to receive care and support from our NEST Development Follow-Up Center.

Support from programs like Benefits that Benefit Children, a voluntary benefit cause marketing program, enable Cook Children's to provide the highly specialized intensive care services and attention that medically fragile babies, like Avery, need.

Benefits That Benefit Children provides donations to Cook Children's when companies like yours offer certain best-in-class voluntary benefits from top-ranked providers. Through the Benefits That Benefit Children* program, you have an opportunity to help Cook Children's in their ongoing commitment to saving children's lives. Benefits That Benefit Children, in partnership with Combined Insurance Company of America, will donate $10 to Cook Children's for each qualified employee attending an employee-benefit enrollment meeting.† By attending the meeting, the contribution is made without any obligation to purchase coverage.

* Benefits That Benefit Children is a cause marketing program, created by National Benefit Partners.

† Combined Insurance Company of America, a Chubb company, will make a $10 donation to Cook Children's for each qualified employee that attends an employee-benefit enrollment meeting even if no products are purchased. No employee purchase or enrollment necessary. Purchase of a product will not increase the charitable donation.
